Excerpt: . . . 11 intelligence valuable for national security while protecting law enforcement and prosecutorial equities. 5. Denial and deception The Committee has been deeply concerned about the increase in foreign denial and deception efforts directed against U. S. intel-ligence collection. Denial and deception refers to efforts to conceal, or mislead with respect to, activities of interest and concern to U. S. policymakers such as military deployments, development of weap-ons of mass destruction, and political intentions. Denial and decep-tion threatens the national security by depriving U. S. policymakers and military leaders of timely and accurate intelligence of threats to U. S. interests. The Committee held one briefing for Members and a number of staff briefings on denial and deception issues. The Committee increased funding for activities to counter denial and deception, and has directed actions designed to focus Intelligence Community resources and management attention on this critical intelligence challenge. 6. Ballistic missile analysis As discussed elsewhere in this report, a...
